Boost productivity

Studies show that staff spend an average of two hours every day looking for information. TWO HOURS – imagine what could be done with that time!

With INDIGO, that critical information is easily accessed by your staff. That means your organization's key information is centralized, up to date and safe.

Meet all deadlines

INDIGO is designed to manage your Nation's compliance. Track your regulatory filings, deadlines, tasks and due dates so that nothing is lost or falls through the cracks.

Reduce Risk

INDIGO's easy to use process lets you share details with your stakeholders to eliminate operational knowledge gaps.

Having all your details and procedures in one place ensures organizational knowledge stays in the community and makes for easier succession planning.

Used by First Nations organizations throughout BC, the Yukon and the NWT

Supporting your teams to be more effective

With INDIGO, you create a consistent workflow for everyone to use. This reduces duplicate data entry, keeps your team on top of what needs to be done and enhances the productivity of every staff member in the organization.

Easy to learn

Our clients tell us how pleased they are when they first start using INDIGO software and relieved at how fast they get up to speed.

Centralized information

INDIGO creates a foundation for building a management and information structure that will allow your team to be effective, efficient and successful.

I have worked with the Applied Office Solutions team and First Nations clients who have utilized AOS database management services. AOS provided both on-site and remote training to First Nations database managers and were quickly available "on call" to provide assistance in using the system. I have been very impressed with both their approach and their work.
